NOVEMBER

The great consolation of our November remembering is that our connections are never broken. When we face the emptiness, pain and sorrow that come with grief we can feel useless but our Church reminds us that we are not powerless in the face of the tragedy of the loss of someone we love. There is still something we can do. Our prayers and acts of remembrance and charity can assist our loved ones on their journey back to God.

November is always a reminder to us of how important is that we live fully in the present moment. If we live to give as much love as we can then death will never be the end of our human story. To love is to live eternally because it means we will have left a mark on others that will be passed on and shared with generations yet unborn.

The Christian faith is about living, not dying. We need to understand that. It is about living confident, courageous lives here and now. Christian faith is about living.

It is about loving God and loving people.

It is about making sure that the entire world knows the reason for the hope we have in our hearts.

Jesus Christ was victorious over the grave.

And because He lives we too shall live.

"Those who have died go no further than God, and God is very near"
