Lent - A Time to Pause

We are very aware we live in at least two different worlds. In the third world people die from famine and neglect, in our Western world excess and addictions kill us. The progress that our Western Society has brought is tremendous but the part of the dark side of it is that it has multiplied the possibility for addiction. Alcohol, drug and gambling addictions have grown but many other addictions have come our way. The internet is one place where we can find many. In our society, it is practically impossible to avoid some form of addiction. But a warning - it is useless going around condemning and grumbling about the modern world and modern things. The challenge is to learn to live with them and through all these and know that God's love can still save us. Alcoholics Anonymous has shown us this despite it being a non-religion movement. As we face Lent, it is time to look at the emptiness and neediness in our lives and all the false ways in which we try to fill that hole. It is an opportunity to look at our lifestyle and addictions and take some action. It is a time to promote some genuine and healing Lenten abstinence.

Beatitudes for Friends of the Aged

- Blessed are they who understand my faltering step and shaking hand.
- Blessed are they who know that my ears today must strain to catch the things they say.
- Blessed are they who seem to know that my eyes are dim and my wits are slow.
- Blessed are they who looked away when coffee spilled at the table today.
- Blessed are they with a cheery smile who stop to chat for a little while.
- Blessed are they who never say, "You've told that story twice today."
- Blessed are they who make it known that I'm loved, respected and not alone.
- Blessed are they who know I'm at a loss to find the strength to carry the cross.
- Blessed are they who ease the days on my journey home in loving ways.
