LIGHTING ONE ANOTHER UP

On Tuesday morning a woman, wife, mother of eight young children gave the Thought for the Day on Radio. She talked about her own parents who reared them well and as she put it - on hand-me-downs. She now rears her children in the same way. She finished by saying: We live with Hand-Me-Downs so that we can lift one another up. The idea of clothes being handed down from one generation to the next and in that bringing them closer together is worth thinking about.

We all need one another to lift us up. Others need us too, and especially in these difficult times.

In the aftermath of the Anglo tapes and other Institutional scandals there is an obvious case to be made now to give this country back to its people and religion back to the people of God. This means we are challenged now to take responsibility, more and more, for one another. The power of a caring community is special.

We agree too that we do need rules and regulations - there has to be boundaries to make community, family, marriage possible. Children need a good degree of discipline and order to grow up well. So do we all to feel safe and secure. Taking responsibility for our future is a priority for all of us.

We welcome two new volunteers ....

Chris Corbett in Eucharist Ministry and Aisling Woulfe in Readers of the Word.

We thank them and ask God's Blessing on them as they carry out their ministry.
