Ritual of the Lamplighter

Before the age of electricity, city streets were lit by gas lamps. Lamplighters lit these lamps with a flaming torch. One night an old man stood looking across a valley to a town on a hillside. He could see the torch of the lamplighter lighting lamps as he went. But because of the darkness, he could not see the lamplighter. He could see only his torch and the trail of lights he left behind. The old man said to a friend standing next to him, "That lamplighter is a good example of how the Christian ought to live. You may never know them, but you know that they passed through the world by the trail of lights they leave behind."

First Friday: Lay Ministers of the Eucharist will visit the sick and housebound during the month of September. Fr. Harry is recovering well thank God. We will continue to pray for him.
